This includes research involving guardians such as adult professionals (e.g. those working with children or the elderly), or research in where access to research participants is not possible without the permission of another adult, such as another family member (e.g. the parent or husband of the participant) or a community.

3. Research involving access to records of personal or confidential information, including genetic or other biological information, concerning identifiable individuals. Research which could induce psychological stress, anxiety or humiliation or cause more than minimal pain.

4. Research involving intrusive interventions or data collection methods – for example, the administration of substances, vigorous physical exercise, or techniques such as hypnotism. In particular, where participants are persuaded to reveal information which they would not otherwise disclose in the course of everyday life.

14.10. Research involving potentially vulnerable groups:

It describes the requirements concerning review of research that involves groups that could be potentially vulnerable to coercion in regard to autonomy and present conditions that may affect risk/benefit determinations or bearing unequal burden in research. IEC members are responsible for receiving, verifying, and reviewing the research protocols pertaining to vulnerable populations using the Risk benefit assessment tool (Annexure no.: 13A, B). Such protocols should be reviewed keeping in mind the following points when it concerns research that involves groups that could be potentially vulnerable to coercion:

- o Measure to protect autonomy,
- o Risk/benefit determinations with respect to the vulnerability.

Member of the IEC who would be reviewing such protocols should be well versed with the potential harm or risk of such population participating in the study. For example, children and young people, those with a learning disability or cognitive impairment, or individuals in a dependent or unequal relationship. Committee will review the safety and the rights of justice issues involving vulnerable population if applicable for any particular study involving such populace. Vulnerable Subjects will be defined as per the standard guidelines by ICMR (http://www.icmr.nic.in/guidelines/ICMR_Ethical_Guidelines_2017.pdf) A vulnerable category of subjects are those who are relatively (or absolutely) incapable of protecting their own interests which includes children, prisoners, pregnant women, handicapped or mentally disabled persons, refugees, displaced persons and economically or educationally disadvantaged persons, who are likely to be vulnerable to coercion or undue influence. When a trial is to be carried out in the vulnerable populations like the paediatric, geriatric population, pregnant women, etc., the consent of the trial subject and subject's Legally Acceptable Representative (LAR) is to be mandatorily taken and the IEC will determine that the proposed protocol and/or other document(s) adequately address the relevant ethical concerns and meet applicable regulatory requirements for such trials. Where required assent of the participant will also be taken and this will be ensured during review and approval of the ICF.

14.11: Protocol deviation/ non-compliance/ violation: IEC will responsible to review deviation / non-compliance/ violation. The member secretary / Chairman will categorize the protocol deviation as minor and major or may designate members (one/more) to review and take a decision depending on the seriousness of the deviation/non-compliance/violation. The decision will be taken to ensure that the safety and rights of the research participants are safeguarded. Following the procedures mentioned in protocol in accordance with statutory provisions, National /International ethical guidelines and procedures mandated by IEC, protocol deviation/non-compliance/violation will be detected accordingly.

14.11.1. Protocol deviation/s: Any change, divergence or departure from the study design or procedures of protocol which does not have a major impact on the subject's rights, safety or well-being or completeness, accuracy, study outcome and reliability of study data and has not been approved by IEC will be considered minor deviation. On the content of a deviation, the protocol has approved by IEC that may affect the subject's rights, safety or wellbeing and/or the completeness accuracy, study outcome and reliability of study data will be considered major deviation. The PI should submit the protocol deviation report as per the format.

(Annexure no.: 14)

14.11.2. Protocol violation/s: A protocol violation is a deviation from the IEC approved protocol that may affect the subject's rights, safety, or wellbeing and/or the completeness, accuracy, study outcome and reliability of the study data will be considered a protocol violation. The PI should submit the protocol violation report as per the format. (Annexure no.: 15)
